

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I would like to thank Prof. Ahmed El-Geneidy for his constant support, availability, and guidance throughout the development of this research project. I am also grateful to Prof. Brian H. Y. Lee for his helpful comments as a second reader. Thanks also to Michael Grimsrud, co-author of the first chapter, for his dedication and constant interest in the development of this research.

A special thank you also goes out to Le Comité sur le vol de vélo for their support and insight into the development of this research and to all of the dedicated Montreal cyclists who completed the 2012 Montreal Bicycle Theft Survey for their thoughtful responses; without them, this research would not have been possible. Thank you also to Mr. Daniel Schwartz for the excellent tech support that he provided throughout the data collection process and to Mr. Daniel Bergeron from the Agence Metropolitaine de Transport (AMT) for providing the O-D survey data used in part of the study.

I would also like to express my gratitude to all of the members of the Transportation Research at McGill (TRAM) team for their help with the survey, suggestions on the analysis, and friendship.
